Please be aware that certain library services and resources are only discoverable to users who are signed in or are working at University computers. This includes some bibliographic information that is only available to authenticated users.

What this means:
If a patron is using their own device and is not signed in, they may encounter a smaller list of results for a search query than when entering the exact same search query while signed in, or when using a University computer.

Please advise your patrons to sign in when searching, so that they may retrieve the full range of objects available to them. Web-based help resources are also being drafted to make patrons aware of this issue.

Maximilian Fleischman
Systems Librarian
University of Manitoba Libraries

October 7, 2014